For the last 27 years, Chicago Human Rhythm Project (CHRP) has been instrumental in developing the next generation of great American tap and percussive dance artists. Through our TAP SCHOLAR program and extensive work in Chicago Public Schools, After School Matters, Gallery 37, KRAFT Great Kids, Urban Gateways and more, aspiring artists have been studying and performing with the greatest masters of the art form and are making their own mark on the world by learning the value of hard work, collaboration, innovation, creativity and determination.

You can help nurture the next generation by supporting our annual gala fundraiser JUBALEE! The results of our education and performance training programs are clear! Former Rhythm World students are winning awards, garnering critical acclaim, starring on Broadway and conquering the world, including . . .

Make a difference today and keep the beat alive!
CHRP is dedicated to “passing it on” – identifying, training, presenting and supporting a new and diverse generation of passionate young artists.
